Hurricane Is Blowing Toward North Carolina

WILMINGTON, N. C. (UP) — A full-blown tropical storm moved northward off the North Carolina coast today and the Weather Bureau said it is expected to sweep over Cape Hatteras tonight "attended by very high tides and hurricane winds."

In a 1 p. m. EST advisory, the weather bureau in Miami, Fla., advised full hurricane precautions immediately from Morehead City, N. C., to Manteo, N. C.

The North Carolina coast was battling down. The coast guard closed two lifeboat stations on the lonely outer banks and sent patrol planes over the coastal area, dropping messages to warn the inhabitants.

Here is the weather bureau 1 p. m. advisory:
"Hoist hurricane warnings at 1 p. m. from Morehead City to Manteo and Nags Head, N. C., and hoist northeast storm warnings north of the Virginia capes to Atlantic City."

The hurricane center at 1 p. m. EST, was about 120 miles south of Cape Lookout, N. C., moving northward about 12 miles per hour with strongest winds near 100 miles an hour.

"Indications are the center will pass over the Cape Hatteras area tonight attended by very high tides and hurricane winds."

"Full precautions are advised immediately from Morehead City to Manteo. Hurricane warnings are now displayed from Morehead City to Manteo and northeast storm warnings elsewhere north of Myrtle Beach to Atlantic City."

Small craft scurried for safe shelter along the southeast coast as winds increased gradually and rain squalls broke over the coast as far north as Norfolk, Va.

Big transport planes and twin-engine trainers roared out of the Cherry Point, N. C., main air station for inland points as marine corps officials said "full precautions" were being taken against a big blow.

MIAMI, Fla., (UP) — Hurricane "Barbara," the first of the 1953 season, lumbered slowly northward today as the Miami Weather Bureau warned that "strong to gale force" winds would strike the North Carolina coast within hours.

The big blow, which boiled up suddenly in the Atlantic off the northeast Florida coast, was located about 300 miles east of Brunswick, Ga., in a 5 a. m. (EST) advisory issued by the Weather Bureau.

Hurricane-force winds of 66 to 100 miles per hour were located on the storm's northeast quadrant, the advisory said, while gales extend "outward 120 miles from the center."

In ordering storm warnings displayed from Myrtle Beach, S. C., north to the Virginia capes, the weather bureau said "winds are increasing along the Carolina coast late today and tonight."

The advisory said "continued slow movement" of the hurricane at about eight to 10 miles per hour should continue in a northerly direction "for the next 12 hours with some increase in the size of the storm."

Mrs. Ann Davison, a 38-year-old English widow who became the first woman to sail the Atlantic alone, missed the hurricane by about 100 miles when she arrived here yesterday.

"Barbara" is the second tropical storm to churn southern waters this year but the first to pace hurricane force winds of 75 miles per hour or more. Storm "Alice" which grew up off the western tip of Cuba May 25 never reached hurricane strength before it dissipated into squalls over northwest Florida.

The first hurricane of 1952 also took a northwest route, raking the South Carolina coast and causing four deaths and property damage running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

AEA Committees Outline Work

ARKADELPHIA (UP) — Arkansas Education association committees opened a two-day conference here today to outline their work for next year.

Hugh B. Patterson, Jr., publisher of the Arkansas Gazette, led a panel discussion as the opening feature. Others on the panel were Sam Dickinson, editorial writer for the Arkansas Democrat; State Sen. Roy Milum of Harrison; Mrs. J. R. Sink of Newport, representing the Arkansas Congress of Parents and Teachers; Marvin Bird of Earle; John Lookadoo of Arkadelphia; J. C. Jones of Pottsville; Joe Cash, state labor commissioner; and Thomas G. Wilson of Conway.

Problems brought up at the panel discussion will be considered during the remainder of the conference.

Some 400 persons are attending the conference that will close Friday.

Car Stolen Here Recovered, Two Youths Arrested

A 1951 Pontiac stolen here yesterday and owned by Chester Marlar has been recovered in Marshall, Texas and two youths, furloughed from the Arkansas Boys Industrial School, have admitted stealing the vehicle, City and State Police said.

The youths, both believed to be 16, were listed as Bobby Stewart of Arkansas and Charles Sellers of Pasadena, Texas. They will be returned to Hope today.

Officers also will question them in connection with another car stolen in Little Rock and found abandoned here yesterday, and about a cafe burglary in Arkadelphia. Blood was found on the abandoned auto and it is definitely known that whoever entered the cafe cut his hand.

Spending Cuts Considered in New Budget

By FRANK O'BRIEN

WASHINGTON (UP) — A new federal budget for the current fiscal year, with spending figures marked down below the levels approved by Congress, was reported in the making today.

It was learned Budget Director Joseph Dodge plans to get the new spending estimate out late this month. He has already ordered stringent money-conserving measures to go into effect immediately and has told government departments to plan budget slashes for next year at least as deep as this year's.

These steps were disclosed yesterday when a secret Dodge letter to all government department and agency heads came to light. It was dated July 9, more than a month before President Eisenhower publicly called for all government executives to "take every possible step" to cut spending immediately.

Dodge not only ordered economizing up and down the line but directed government executives to look for programs and projects the government could drop. He directed heads of federal lending agencies to reduce lending and swell Treasury offers where they can by selling government-held mortgages to private business. He told service agencies to charge higher fees so as to put their offices on a self-supporting basis.

He called for reduced government payrolls. Additionally, he demanded intensified efforts to get type programs.

Dodge's letter went out to all agency heads three weeks before the administration made a fruitless appeal to Congress to raise the week after the 1953 fiscal year some 3 1/2 billions bigger than had been planned. It was issued a legal debt limit from 275 to 290 billion dollars.

The Dodge letter said, in part: "Every possible reduction will have to be made. No saving can be considered too small, and no soundly conceived individual reduction too large or too difficult to be attempted. Reductions will have to be at least equal to and may have to be greater than those already made."

Worst Fire
Worst forest fire in American history is considered to be the Peshtigo fire in Wisconsin, October of 1871. Fire burned over 1,280,000 acres, homes, towns, and settlements were swept away by flames, and 1500 persons perished.

The first hurricane of 1952 also took a northwest route, raking the South Carolina coast and causing four deaths and property damage running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

All Around the Town

The Legionnaires continue to establish themselves as a pretty fair county ball team by beating the Barksdale Flyers 10 to 5 here last night... thanks to the visiting manager who pulled that first hurler... tonight it's Waldo which always has a good team... The Parks Commission is looking for a successor to Kelsie Moore, athletic director, who resigned and it's no secret that quite a few local boys are seeking the post... so far the commission has been silent, even about Moore's leaving.

Hot and dry is the weather, with truck farmers and stockmen hoping for rain while the cotton growers apparently are satisfied... a stockman said just one more good rain would tide this section over... plenty of hay and feed and the melons are feeling the pinch... incidentally melon growers want a market more than anything.

The Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors will meet Friday morning at 10 a.m. and one sure subject will be the Millwood Dam project... The Board also hopes to have some good news by the time they meet.

$35 Million Fire Hits GM Plant

DETROIT (UP) — A $35 million dollar fire roared through the General Motors Corp. transmission and instrument plant in suburban Livonia late yesterday, leaving a charred building.

Two men were killed, more than a score injured.

One GM official, who estimated the damage cost, said that production in the Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Pontiac plants would be hit.

An estimated 45,000 workers may be out of their jobs temporarily.

The fire raged for three hours before it was brought under control. Within another hour the dead were brought out of the building, perished in a wing of the building.

UN Chief to Talks With Russians

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld hoped to find out today what Russia's views are on the forthcoming Korean political conference.

Hammarskjöld already has conferred with Western big power delegates, but no one has had so much as a hint what the Soviets will do during the General Assembly, which opens Monday.

The secretary general planned to go over the whole question with Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky, who arrived here Tuesday from Moscow. He hoped to persuade Vishinsky to avoid bringing up any issues which might complicate the Korean discussions.

The United States and its 15 U. N. allies in the Korean War met for more than four hours last night in an attempt to hammer out a plan they could sponsor jointly. At the end of the meeting, however, they said they got no further than a preliminary exchange of views.

45 Memphis Firemen Overcome by Smoke

MEMPHIS (UP) — Forty-five firemen were overcome by smoke as they fought a spectacular fire which raged through three business buildings here last night and early today.

Seven of the injured were hospitalized but none was reported in serious condition.

The blaze, which enveloped the downtown area in a thick curtain of smoke, started in the basement of the Bluff City storage Co. It spread to the ext. door Bluff City Warehouse Co., and the nearby Caradine Co., wholesale grocery firm.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was brought under control at 3:30 a. m. seven hours after its discovery. There was no immediate estimate of damages.

Fire Insurance Rate Ruling Soon

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — State Insurance Commissioner Harvey Combs said today he'll rule "within the next few days" on a proposed reduction in fire insurance rates in Arkansas.

Combs has granted the Arkansas Fire and Inspection Rating Bureau permission to study fire insurance rates in other states before he takes action on his recent order that rates be chopped.

Low Income Group to Pay More Taxes

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (UP) — May lower income families will find they are paying more federal taxes next year despite a 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes set for Jan. 1.

The explanation: an automatic increase in social security taxes, which Congress has decided to let take effect on the same date.

In some cases, the social security boost more than offsets the reduction in income taxes.

President Eisenhower asked the lawmakers to cancel the social security tax increase, but the administration didn't press the matter and Congress took no action.

A powerful group of lawmakers apparently was ready to try to block Eisenhower's proposal on the theory that the tax boost is needed to safeguard for millions of persons under social security laws.

Congressional tax authorities estimate the 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes, for example, will save $13.20 a year for a married couple with two children and an income of $3,000 a year.

The tax cut would be offset after Jan. 1 in pay checks subject to the withholding plan.

Foster's to Open in New Store Friday

Corbin Foster

Foster's Shoe Store has moved to its new location, next to the Post office, and will hold formal opening Friday, August 14.

The beautiful new store is one that any city would be proud of. The building has been redecorated throughout with inlaid tile on the floor, bleached Philippine Mahogany fixtures that line the walls, head high, floral wall paper on the women's side and plaid on the men's, green, rose and yellow to blend perfectly with the fixtures.

And a classy feature is the back of the store which is a semi-circular indirect lighting, air conditioning and more shoes than normally seen in a store... four walls of them from back to front. Behind the mahogany semi-circle is the office and a large storage room.

Window displays line the walls on either side and the color scheme blends perfectly. The public is invited to attend the opening Friday.

Bill Collier's sixth inning home run provided Little Rock with the margin of victory last night. His circuit smash broke up a pitching duel between Steve Hathcote of Little Rock and Jerry Alford of Jackson.

The triumph qualified Little Rock for the regional tournament in Austin, Tex., next week with the regional winner to qualify for the world series at Williamsport, Pa.

Chinese Hint Unrest, Revolt in North Korea

TOKYO (UP) — Communists broadcasts today reported unrest and revolt in North Korea and said a total of 25 officials have been purged.

Among the new names stricken from the party lists by Premier Kim Il Sung were the former ambassadors to Peking and Moscow, Kwon O Chik and Chu Nyong In, respectively, a Peking radio broadcast said.

At the same time, the broadcast revealed the rise of new and younger Communists to party leadership as veteran Reds fell by the wayside.

Former among the new leaders were the three deputy chairmen of the labor (Communist) party central committee on which Kim is chairman. The three are Pak Chong Ae, only woman member. Continued on Page Eight

Helena Man Embezzles $73,650

HELENA (UP) — A prominent Helena businessman was charged yesterday with embezzling $73,650.11 from Helena Wholesale Inc., 650.11 from Helena Wholesale Inc., John L. Anderson, Phillips County deputy prosecutor, said.

He said Mathes was free on $10,000 bond. A preliminary hearing on the charge will be held in Municipal Court Saturday.

Anderson said the businessman, who was "highly thought of in the community," had admitted taking sums ranging from $100 to $400 since Jan. 1, 1948.

The attorney said Mathes told him that he drew checks on the company payable to the local bank explaining the money was for payrolls.

Mathes is married and the father of two grown children. He worked for the firm since July, 1941.

With Patience, Tact, Subtlety You Can Get a Child to Agree to Anything — It Says Here

By SAUL PETT
For Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (UP) — Amy Pett, who is 10 and has roots, has finally changed her mind. She is now willing to move with her family to a larger house.

For months, we had talked about getting larger quarters. As the only male in a three-female, one-bath room house, I was tired of shaving in the office. There were other reasons, too, but none that persuaded Amy.

All her friends are here, she insisted, and, besides, the cats wouldn't like it.

She was that adamant until a recent Sunday morning when the wind blew the real estate section over her comics.

"I wanna move," she yelled. "My wife and I exchanged glances of triumph. It was in the way, rare tribute to our long subtle efforts to make the child change her mind without injury to the roots. The idea was to make her think it was really her decision—not a command."

Gls of Camp 1 Continue Tales of Mistreatment

By LEROY HANSEN

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The first group of prisoners from Communist prison camp No. 1 came back to freedom today and said conditions there were worse than in notorious Camp No. 5, where at least 2,000 Americans died.

They told of Americans dying of sickness and mistreatment, of men duped by Communist propaganda, of miserable food and of constant mental harassment.

One of the 75 Americans handed over to the United Nations in "Operation Big Switch" was swathed in bandages.

Others said he had been injured when the truck taking them from Camp No. 1 at Insang-Dong to Kaesong near here turned over a North Korean after hitting a shell-hole on the highway.

With the exception of the bandaged soldier who was able to walk all of the American repatriated today appeared in good health.

The returning Americans lifted the total of U. S. personnel freed by the Communists to 823, more than 25 per cent of the 3,313 listed by the Reds for repatriation.

As the new group of Americans went through "Freedom Gate" here, 10 Americans in Tokyo prepared to fly home Thursday night (11 a. m. EDT) on the second flight of sick and wounded, and in Icho 306 freed G.I.'s waited for the next ship to leave for the United States.

The Communists have promised to return 44 Americans, one Canadian and 324 other captives this day.

Army Can Hold 250 Chinese for Crimes

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH

WASHINGTON (UP) — Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens said today that about 250 Chinese Communist prisoners are involved in various crimes and must be held until the last of the prisoner exchange in withholding for social security. The boost on work change.

Stevens' statement, made to reporters on his arrival from Korea, was an apparent counter-move to Communist reports that some American prisoners have been convicted of crimes and sentenced to prison terms which will bar them from being returned with other Americans.

Stevens said charges against the Chinese prisoners range from murder of a United Nations guard in a POW compound down to lesser crimes.

He stressed, however, that even the United States is "not holding anybody back" in the prisoner exchange. He said the exchange is going forward, but that the Chinese Communist group involved in prison camp crimes "will be held until the last."

Stevens returned aboard a military Air Transport Service plane which also brought back four soldiers from the Eighth Army to turning home on rotation.

Biggest Crops in Prospect for U.S.

WASHINGTON (UP) — The biggest U. S. crops since 1949 are in prospect, the Agriculture Department reported yesterday.

But it indicated that corn production may not be so high as to require the rigid marketing controls impending for wheat and cotton next year.

The corn crop prospect was 3,330,410,000 bushels. A figure 70 million higher probably would require Secretary of Agriculture Benson to invoke marketing quotas.

Benson expressed the feeling "there will probably have to be controls" of some kind on corn. Less restrictive acreage planting allotments, and possibly marketing quotas if crop prospects go up by Nov. 15, may be ordered.

The cotton crop prospect was 10,330,410,000 bales. A figure 70 million higher probably would require Secretary of Agriculture Benson to invoke marketing quotas.

Names Group to Probe U. S. Hiring, Firing

DENVER, (AP)—President Eisenhower today created a new government committee to help prevent any hiring and firing discrimination on jobs covered by federal contracts.

At the same time, Eisenhower abolished a somewhat similar committee, which former President Truman set up Dec. 5, 1951.

The President signed an executive order at his vacation headquarters establishing a 14-member government contract committee.

The committee, to be named, will be made up of representatives of these agencies:

The Atomic Energy Commission, Commerce Department, Department of Defense, Justice Department, General Services Administration, and the Labor Department.

The other eight members will represent the public generally and will be named by Eisenhower.

While House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said there will be some Negroes in the group representing the public.

In his executive order, the President said it is the policy of the government "to provide equal employment opportunity for all qualified persons employed or seeking employment on government contracts because such persons are entitled to fair and equitable treatment in all aspects of employment on work paid for by the government."

Benton Soldier Died as Prisoner

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today released the first list of names from the 1,922 American servicemen whom the Communists claim died in Korean prison camps of escaped.

The Defense Department emphasized it has no verification of the Communist reports.

Next of kin of the soldiers named today have been notified. All on today's list are army personnel.

Other names on the list will be released as their next of kin are notified.

The first list included:

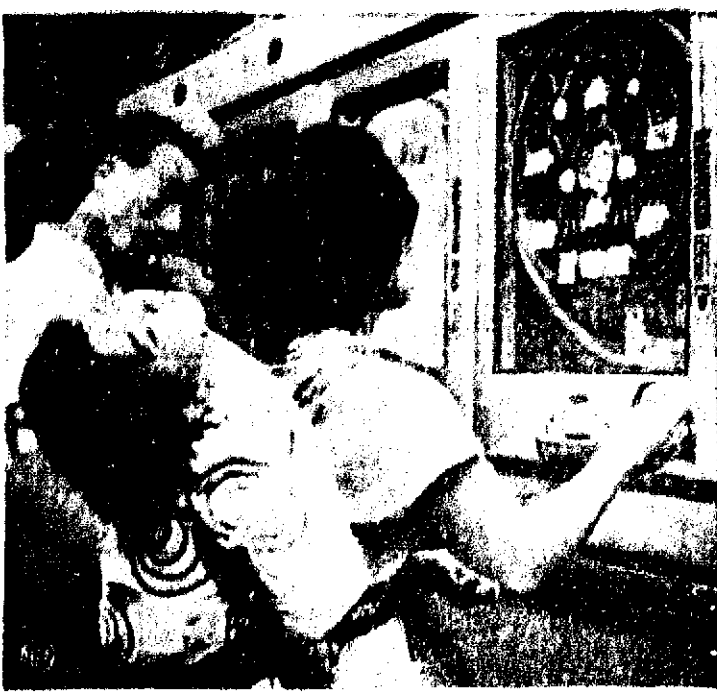

Cpl. Floyd B. Evans, son of Mrs. Laura Evans, Benton.

from public funds.

Eisenhower also said the contracting agencies of the government, as well as those doing business with the government, are obligated to insure compliance with the equal employment program of the government.

The President noted that existing executive orders require federal contracting agencies to include in their contracts a provision obligating the contractor not to discriminate against any employee or applicant for jobs because of race, creed, color or national origin.

Prime contractors are required to include a similar provision in all subcontracts. The President said a review and analysis of existing practices of government contracting agencies show that the practices and procedures relating to compliance with the non-discrimination provisions must be revised and strengthened to eliminate discrimination in all aspects of employment.

Mrs. O'Dwyer to Attend Hearing

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Beatriz del Villar, Mrs. O'Dwyer, will return to Mexico next month for the Catholic church hearing on her request for annulment from her former American Ambassador's wife, Mrs. O'Dwyer. It was disclosed today.

Pedro del Villar, Mrs. O'Dwyer's lawyer, said he notified her officially yesterday that she had been granted a civil divorce from O'Dwyer in nearby Cuernavaca.

In reply, he said, she told him she planned to complete her present tour of Spain later this month. She said she would then return to Mexico in mid-September for the ecclesiastical hearing.

Del Villar said there "must be some confusion" about the former New York model's expression of "surprise and concern" when first informed by newsmen she had been granted a divorce. He said the divorce action was carried out in accordance with instructions she left when she went to Spain.

The attorney said the civil court divorce would not interfere with the church annulment, but was simply a related action required for legal effect.

There was no property settlement.

Del Villar added that he knew nothing of reports Mrs. O'Dwyer planned to use her maiden name. He said that was entirely up to her.

Miss Simpson told a reporter in Spain yesterday that she knew nothing about the divorce decree. She said that before she left Mexico she had "signed lots of papers" giving her lawyer power of attorney to act for her.

As a Catholic, naturally the church comes before the state for me and I thought we were getting a church annulment of our marriage," she said.

O'Dwyer, who is in Mexico City, said he did not recognize the divorce and was waiting for church authorities to act on a petition to have the marriage dissolved.

Pedro del Villar, Miss Simpson's attorney here, said she used her power of attorney to obtain the divorce. She had not been notified when news of the divorce leaked out this week, he said, because "the official notification had not been typed up yet."

Both Miss Simpson and O'Dwyer expressed fears the divorce would complicate their case before ecclesiastical authorities who granted them a separation late last year pending a decision on their petition for an annulment.

It is believed that the divorce was domesticated considerably later than given.

Senate Group to Visit Southwest

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A Senate group will visit Southwest drought areas in October to see how the government's emergency relief program was handled and what to do to prevent future drought.

A Senate Agriculture Subcommittee, headed by Sen. Schaefer (D-Kan.) also will determine if there is need for permanent legislation.

Congress recently appropriated 150 million dollars for drought relief.

Schaefer said the program should be tapering off in October, adding that recent rains in the area have somewhat improved the outlook.

He said the subcommittee does not plan any hearings during its survey of the relief program. He said the subcommittee will study those parts of the relief program, including Arkansas, that have been declared drought disaster areas.

Hayes said the projects are part of bank stabilization work on the Arkansas.

Carpenters Union Pulls Out of AFL

By NORMAN WALKER

CHICAGO (AP)—Dickering between the AFL and CIO for a merger already has produced a major casualty. The powerful Carpenters Union has pulled out of the AFL in protest.

The 822,000-member carpenters' group, a pillar of the AFL and one of its founding unions, suddenly severed connections with the federation yesterday.

Action by other AFL leaders in okaying an agreement with the CIO to ban "raids" of rival union membership was given as the reason but Carpenters' President Maurice A. Hutcheson conceded: "It's the climax of something that's been going on for a long time in the AFL."

Hutcheson wrote in a letter to AFL President George Meany revealing his union's secession that he objected to the AFL agreeing to ban fights between AFL and CIO unions when, he said the AFL hadn't taken steps to stop scraps among its own unions. Hutcheson's letter complained that AFL leaders "are more concerned with the affairs of the CIO than they are with those of the federation."

Meany fired back that Hutcheson's reasons for quitting "didn't seem to make sense." He said the "no raiding" agreement with the CIO was a necessary first step toward achieving an actual AFL-CIO merger — something Meany said almost everyone agreed would benefit all labor.

Guard Tells of 4-Days With Killer

ATLANTA (AP)—A man who lived with terror for four days in the north Georgia woods returned to his family today after his two captors were headed over without bond on a charge of murdering a U. S. deputy marshal.

George Highower, 34, whose role of guard was turned into that of hostage by Herbert Judich and Lewis Larson, told in a copyrighted story in the Atlanta Constitution today how Marshal Sam Vaughn was shot to death.

Judich and Larson are awaiting action of a federal grand jury after walking preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner Howell Stanton at Rome, Ga., yesterday.

"They were brought here to the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, finally concluding a trip interrupted by tragedy and four days of terror while Georgia's biggest manhunt relentlessly tracked them down," Highower told of spending days in a dried-up creek bed, suffering from hunger, thirst and fear, with the two convicts for company. He gave the following account of the end of the trip on which he and Marshal Vaughn sought to bring the pair to Atlanta from Nashville, Tenn., to serve five years for transporting a stolen car across a state line.

"We were brought here to the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, finally concluding a trip interrupted by tragedy and four days of terror while Georgia's biggest manhunt relentlessly tracked them down," Highower told of spending days in a dried-up creek bed, suffering from hunger, thirst and fear, with the two convicts for company. He gave the following account of the end of the trip on which he and Marshal Vaughn sought to bring the pair to Atlanta from Nashville, Tenn., to serve five years for transporting a stolen car across a state line.

DOROTHY DIX

Enjoys His Chums

Dear Miss Dix: I'm a bride of eight months, living at my mother's home with my husband. We all get along fine. My husband works during the day and goes to school at night, while I work too, sometimes putting in a good deal of overtime. Thus, my husband and I see very little of each other. On Sunday, which is the only day we could be together, he insists on inviting friends over, without consulting me. This is a practice that has been going on since we first met. When he was courting me, he'd frequently bring one of his buddies along. I don't like to seem unsocial, and I assure you I'm not, but I would like to make him realize that one day together isn't too much. These visits also strain our limited budget and make more work for my mother. I am 22 and my husband is 27.

He Likes His Pal
Answer: Your young husband's devotion to his pals was so marked before marriage, that I'm surprised he ever got to the altar. Apparently, what's happened to you two is that you are so involved in work, school, and domesticity that you've never had a chance to become really acquainted with each other. The sort of intimate companionship that is the source of all marital joy isn't automatically achieved through the exchange of marriage vows. It comes as the result of working and playing together toward a definite end. With both of you working so hard to have a successful marriage, you probably will laugh at the idea that you're aiming in the wrong direction — yet it's so. Your husband's social inclinations have always tended away from you, and you must make a mighty big effort to turn them in the right direction at this late date. Such an adjustment is usually part of courtship and the engagement period.

Try to persuade your husband to schedule his Sundays — one for you, one for the old gang. Then make your Sunday so enjoyable for him, that he'll learn to rely on you for entertainment rather than on his buddies. No nagging — just fun.

Teeth No Good, Won't Cluck
DENVER (AP)—Robert A. Baker told a district court jury that his false teeth were no good — he can't "cluck" with them.

He needs to cluck in his business, Baker explained. He's a horse trader.

But the jury was unsympathetic. It ruled yesterday Baker must pay $230 that Dr. Max Raabe claims he owes for the dentures, plus interest.

"And I sincerely hope there are no actual cutbacks in our combat forces until there is an actual armistice and settlement," he added.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) today questioned Pentagon estimates that the ceasefire in Korea may cut military spending this fiscal year by 1 to 1 1/2 billion dollars.

McClellan, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said in an interview that the nation will be lucky if it can save they aren't wanted? They are really wonderful parents, and this is the only fault I could possibly find in them.

SALLY
Answer: I must agree with your parents that one of them, at least, should remain at home during the course of a party. Young people should not have a house to themselves at a party. Perhaps your young friends may not like the idea of chaperonage, but I'm sure their parents do even though they, themselves, lack the courage to enforce their convictions.

Red Romanians Holding Big Commie Rallies

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA.—(UP) One of the greatest propaganda shows since Hitler's famous Nazi Party rallies is going on now in Communist Romania—as complete a police state as is the Soviet Union.

Two of four American newsmen invited behind the Iron Curtain to this show—the so-called "Fourth World Festival of Youth"—returned to Vienna yesterday. This correspondent was one of them.

Beneath the brilliant spectacle that must be costing millions of dollars—a spectacle so skillfully organized it made the Nazi propaganda experts look like school-boys—we found:

1. Despair and poverty probably unmatched anywhere in the Communist empire except perhaps China.

2. A sullen, hungry people, placing hope in the United States for liberation.

3. Secret police control of life and thought so thorough that thousands live lives of daily terror while a few top Communists live in luxury.

But thousands of invited Western youths who are not Communists may be deceived and convinced by the skillful stage management of the Communists who organized the festival.

The affair, which runs another week, also appears to have relaxed the tension of the 16 million Romanians, on whom the screws were so tight before the festival that Western diplomats say another twist might have produced a popular uprising.

Before we left unchast a Romanian secretly slipped us a letter which expressed what scores of people said after we had eluded the secret police to talk to them. "Do not leave with the impression the Romanian people live as they appear to live now during the festival," the letter declared.

"For three months before, the Communist government seized all the food from markets. Workers all classes died of hunger on the streets. In front of food stores, lines of 100 to 200 people asked for food and the militia took those who dared to say anything.

"They arrested thousands before the festival who were suspected of being able to produce an uprising during the festival.

"Thousands of honorable Romanians lie shot or in forced labor camps."

"All hope of the Romanian people lies in the American people. We've figured 1953 is the year of liberation. The Romanian people remain silent, like a festering sore, but on the first occasion when it can be achieved, it will break."

Feels Tideland Bill to Be Upheld

SYLVAN LAKE, S. C. (UP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell expressed confidence yesterday that tideland and land legislation will be upheld.

In a speech to the 47th annual meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General, Brownell said the government will move to dismiss action on the tidelands issue brought by the state of Arkansas.

"He said the ground for the dismissal will be that Arkansas has no legal authority to bring such a suit.

The attack on the act contends the tidelands bill is an unwarranted abdication of authority of the United States to a few states and a violation of trust concerning natural resources.

The act vests title to the tidelands in the several coastal states. Arkansas Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry claims the lands and their run oil deposits belong to all the states.

TULSA, OKLA. (UP)—A television firm here filed a malicious mischief charge yesterday against a customer who hurled a money wrench through the screen of his unpaid-for set.

Hives of bees often have many workers assigned to carry water in to the hive.

MEXICO TO NEW YORK BY HOUSEBOAT—Capt. and Mrs. Bob Tabler hit Florida on their houseboat, Grandma II. They are greeted at St. Marks, Fla., by Bo Lynn. The Tablers, traveling through inland waterways, plan to write a guide for other waterway voyagers.

C'MON IN THE WATER'S FINE—A misfortune with a happy ending is shown in this group of kids enjoying the backyard swimming pool of polio-stricken Adele Poindexter, 3-year-old of Skokie, Ill. A manufacturer heard of Adele's plight and donated the pool so she could get the needed exercise. The "coming out party" was appreciated by all the kids in the neighborhood as well as Adele. She is in her little private tub in center of pool.

APOLGY REJECTED

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP)—George Cross Jr., 23, apologized in Municipal court for tearing up a traffic ticket in front of the officer who issued it.

"I didn't realize what I was doing," he told Judge Thurlow T. Taft yesterday.

The apology didn't help much. Taft fined him $20 for driving 45 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone. And he added a $10 fine for littering the street with paper.

Rain Falls in the Midwest

By LOUISE PRESS

A low pressure area moved eastward through the Midwest, bringing thundershowers and cool air in its wake.

The system reached Illinois early today and rolled on toward Indiana and Michigan.

Last night and early today showers pelted Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa, as well as widely scattered portions of Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and northern Texas.

Some rain also fell along the Atlantic Coast.

Although a twister warning was issued for northeast Oklahoma last night, no tornadoes were reported.

But high winds swept across much of the state, and at Altus, Okla., 82-year-old James Alford O'Neal was electrocuted when he stepped on a live wire blown down by the storm. Three others drowned in Lake Murray at Ardmore, Okla., when a savage squall struck.

President Signs

20 Bills Into Law

DENVER (UP)—President Eisenhower today signed 20 bills into law, including one aimed at wiping out racketeering and subversion on the New York waterfront.

Eisenhower signed the measures at his vacation headquarters here at Lowry Air Force Base. The bills were the first approved by the President since he left Washington last Saturday.

After signing the bills and studying other official papers which ar-

Departments Will Try to Meet Demands

WASHINGTON (UP)—Government departments said today they will try to meet President Eisenhower's demand for immediate new economies but they declined to promise any dramatic results.

Most insisted they already have been doing their best to cut expenses. And some indicated that slashes administered by Congress left little room for additional reductions.

A justice department official put it this way: "We're already down to the bone. If we cut any more we're going to be losing chunks of bone."

Mr. Eisenhower asked his agency heads yesterday to attack "expenses cutting" with renewed vigor so that government spending during the current fiscal year could be "progressively" reduced.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the appeal was aimed at avoiding the necessity of a fall session of Congress to consider an increase in the national debt limit.

No signs of possible major new economies turned up in a United Press survey.

Labor Secretary Martin P. Dunken said candidly at a news conference: "There is very little cutting we can do." A spokesman for the post office department said he had no idea where reductions could be made.

Here is a sample reaction in the various departments:

State—a spokesman said "funds available (from Congress) represent a sharp cutback from what was asked (but) we shall certainly bear in mind the President's request."

Treasury—if there are any important cuts they will have to come from coast guard and internal revenue. Cuts in internal revenue probably would be at the expense of badly-needed government income.

Defense—Secretary Charles E. Wilson announced there will be no change in the nation's "basic military program" immediately.

Interior—an official said the department already is "going down the line" for the President's economy program and is surveying ways of eliminating waste, particularly in the reclamation bureau.

FREE PARKING—This parking meter, in La Crosse, Wis., was a handy parking place for scores of winged nuisances from among the millions that invaded the town. Various called May flies, June bugs, Canadian soldiers and barge flies, each summer they swarm into nearby cities from their river breeding grounds.

Fears Threat of Germ Warfare

WASHINGTON (UP)—A leading atomic scientist said today germ warfare poses a deadlier threat to mankind than the hydrogen bomb. But defense officials quickly disputed the statement.

Prof. George Gamow of George Washington university, a world-famous nuclear physicist, told a reporter that the H-bomb which Russia now claims to possess is not the weapon to be feared most of the modern arsenal of mass killers.

"Biological warfare would be effective, a little bottle of germs could do more damage than an H-bomb."

Defense Department spokesmen said they did not share Gamow's view, and asserted that this country has "excellent" defenses against germ warfare.

"Nobody is worried about the possibility of a devastating bacteriological attack," one Pentagon official said.

Officials refused to say how much information, if any, U. S. intelligence agencies have been able to obtain about Russia progress in germ weapons. Nor would they discuss this country's own "BW" development program, which is conducted under conditions of extreme secrecy at Camp Detrick, Md.

ROME, Italy (UP)—Premier Designate Alcide De Gasperi told Italian President Luigi Einaudi today he was unable to form a new government.

Piccioni, a 61-year-old Christian Democratic lawyer and World War I aviation pioneer, ended at Caprarola, near here, to inform him of his decision.

It has been assumed by all political observers that he would head Einaudi the list of a new middle-of-the-road cabinet.

Instead, Piccioni spent 45 minutes in a grim conference with the president, then emerged and announced he could not form a government.

In a press communique announcing his decision, Piccioni said: "As a result of my consultations I had come to believe it would be possible to constitute a ministry of active and profitable collaboration. But I must now state with regret that I have proved impossible—at least so far as my attempt is concerned—to bring the task undertaken to a successful conclusion."

"Consequently, I have asked the president of the republic to accept my resignation of the charge of forming a government."

The announcement took the nation by surprise.

It had been believed he had succeeded where former Premier Alcide De Gasperi failed.

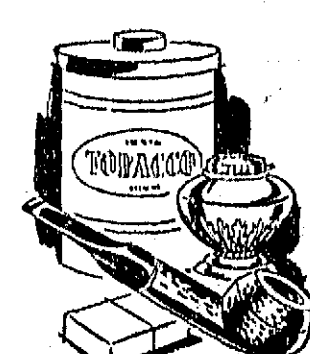

A last-minute squabble over the appointment of some of the ministers left Italy where she had been all summer—without a government and without a strong voice in international affairs.

But the root of Piccioni's and Italy's troubles are deeper than the names on a cabinet list.

They stem from the June 7-B general elections in which the Christian Democrats lost ground in parliament to both the extreme right and extreme left and other center parties also suffered heavy losses.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

DURING the two weeks the shop was closed Karen came a most every day: twice Frank was with her, once to call, in the early evening and again one Sunday morning. She came, when alone, at any time, either mornings, leaving by noon, or for long afternoons.

Karen liked to talk and to listen. Gradually she learned a good deal about her. She had a deep regard for all living things, especially children and old people, for the hurt and unhappy. And for animals. "I've never been to a zoo but I've seen pictures. I couldn't stand seeing animals in cages. I've never wanted to visit the zoo farms around here or to pass the place where they keep little bears chained, summers. I don't even like a circus!"

He found himself telling her about him and her work. "That's wonderful," she said. "She must be such a good woman." "She's all of that."

"Helping the children, that helps her," she said. "Yes, I suppose you wonder why I don't do something to help myself?"

She nodded. He had talked to her about Tim. "Sometimes, Mr. Barton."

"I have tried. I do try." "Perhaps the way will come to you," she said.

During this time he often dreamed of Tim, but these were pleasant dreams, no barriers between, no frustration or terror. Simply they were together somewhere. The background continually altered, it could be a workshop or the Daleway corridors or the river cottage. Sometimes he dreamed of sounds: Tim's feet on the stairs, his voice and laughter, the sound of oars in quiet water.

Karen came one day, and he did not go from camp to greet her. She went to the point and set up the easel, reflecting that he was out on the river or in the village. She sat for a time idle in the sun. She had greatly liked the past days, looked forward to coming here; she had never met a nicer man than David Barton. He was un to be with, friendly and understanding. And her heart was heavy for him because of his unhappiness. He made her think, too; sometimes they argued, often disagreed. He had a wider outlook than any she had hitherto encountered, more of a horizon. She respected his judgment. He was old enough to be her father, although not sold as her father would have been had he lived. She had really never missed having a father until now. Not that she did not like her stepfather, but she'd been a grown girl when he and her mother married. She thought: Tim had been fortunate. She thought a good deal about Tim. He was real and clear to her. She wished that she could help him.

Looking toward camp, she saw a shadow move across the window. Leaving her things, she went to the back door to knock and call: "Are you there, Mr. Barton?"

"Yes. Come in." She went in, saying: "I thought you weren't home. What's the matter, are you sick?"

He was lying on a couch, where the sun didn't fall, and looked drawn and ill. For the first time since she had known him, he looked his age and more.

"It's just a headache, Karen, a form of migraine. I'm subject to it. 'I'll be all right. I got up a moment ago and took a powerful pill. I didn't look out the window and had no idea you were here."

"My mother used to have dreadful headaches. Does ice help?" "Sometimes."

She went to the shed, found a small piece of ice and took it to the sink. "Do you have an ice cap?"

He told her where it was. She came back, the ice cap in a towel, and gave it to him. "Have you had anything to eat?" she asked.

"No. When I woke I couldn't get up, and when I did, well, it was too much effort—besides, I didn't want anything."

"Couldn't you manage tea and dry toast? I'll make them. Please let me?"

He said, smiling: "I have no choice," and lay still, content to hear her moving quietly about and presently the singing kettle.

When toast and tea were ready, she asked: "Can you sit up?"

He did so, dizzily, but his headache was better. Karen made him comfortable against pillows and, as he ate and drank, sat beside him, her hands folded.

"How about you, Karen?" he asked tardily. "I'll be going home soon," she said. "It's early still. Is the tea all right?"

"Fine. Thanks to you and the pill I feel almost human. Did I tell you my brother-in-law's a good doctor? Karen, you'd make an excellent nurse."

"I'd like to be a nurse, but it's a little late, and besides," she explained, without resentment, "it's doubtful that a hospital would accept me for training. But Aunt Mame's taught me quite a lot."

"Maybe it's as well you didn't attempt to train; it's a rugged life."

"I know. But I feel useless."

"You're the reverse; think of the people you make happy—your aunt, your friends, myself included, and of course, Frank."

"I'm not sure about Frank." She took his cup and plate. "Why don't you rest? Maybe you could sleep. I'll go back to the point for a while and then sneak away so quietly you won't wake or be disturbed."

"Don't go yet. Why did you say that about Frank?" he asked. "Well, he wants to marry me."

"And you don't want to marry him, Karen?"

"I'm not sure, Mr. Barton. I think I do, often. I'm so fond of him. Other times—it's all pretty mixed up. Then, she went on earnestly, "he talks of going away, perhaps to Chicago, where he has relatives. I suppose there isn't much future for him in the bank here and he's ambitious."

"Is that why you're uncertain?" "Partly. He thinks I'm stubborn, wanting to stay here the rest of my life. He says I'm able to live anywhere. But I wouldn't be happy, Mr. Barton. And I am happy here." She looked at him soberly, frowning. "Aunt Mame would like me to marry Frank. She doesn't urge it, but I know it would please her. My mother likes him, too. I—Mr. Barton, how do you know you're in love?"

Spain to Let U.S. Have Air, Army Bases

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP) — The Spanish Cabinet reportedly has approved an agreement giving U. S. forces the use of Spanish naval and air bases in exchange for military and economic aid. The pact would tie Spain indirectly into the Western alliance against Communist aggression.

Usually well-informed sources said the agreement was sketched by Generalissimo Franco's ministers at a 16-hour meeting yesterday and was signed shortly. A communiqué issued after the Cabinet meeting made no mention of the pact, however.

Sites of bases wanted by the Americans have not been made public but U. S. Spanish talks reportedly concerned airfields at Madrid, Barcelona and Seville and naval installations at Cadiz and Cartagena.

It was believed that Spain would give the United States use of the bases for 16 years.

Recent reports from Washington said the United States tentatively planned to give Spain in exchange 200 million dollars worth of aid during the fiscal year which began July 1. The funds would be used to build up Spanish armed forces and improve the country's road and rail network.

In addition, further American money would be used in developing the bases themselves. The Air Force told the Senate Appropriations Committee last month it planned to spend up to 100 million dollars on the four islands it hoped to get.

Reports said the pact also provided for a limited number of U. S. military, naval and economic experts to supervise construction work at the bases and assist in administering the economic aid.

Negro to Face Bank Robbing Charge

CHICAGO (UP) — Federal agents today held Morris Williams, 15-year-old Negro, for removal to Arkansas on charges that he aided in an attempted burglary at the Crawfordville branch of the Earle State bank.

Williams was seized at a south-side roominghouse where he had lived for several days.

Four other men and youths are indicted on charges of participating in the burglary.

The entire trial, including the jury's deliberations, lasted less than an hour and a half.

Columbia County Sheriff Claude Linton said Dalton was driving through the southern part of the county when he entered the home of the aged woman and attacked her.

Linton said Dalton had previously served time for attempted rape in Louisiana State Penitentiary.

Egyptians Attack a British Unit

CAIRO, Egypt, (UP) — A mob of angry Egyptians, armed with sticks and bricks, today attacked a platoon of British soldiers manning the north gate of Port Said.

They were driven off when the British troopers fired shots above their heads.

The British soldiers took up positions at the gate after an incident last night in which one British soldier was killed, another was wounded and two Egyptians were injured.

The Egyptian government appealed to Port Said residents to "keep calm" today. But the mob ignored the appeals and attacked the British guards.

The Egyptian minister of interior said nearly the casualties were a result of "friction" between residents of the Suez Canal zone city and British troops. The announcement said British guards were stationed at customs gates despite the warning of Egyptian authorities that any such action would "provoke" the population.

Neither Egyptian nor British authorities were expected to take any drastic action following the incident in order to avoid a possible breakdown in exploratory talks on the Suez Canal zone dispute.

"What chopsticks."

The tone of the interview, the ad said, is reflected by "the lavish use of gold leaf and marble" and "gold fittings and wickered" inlays in the master bath. The ad continued:

"The main residence has six master bedrooms. Also on the property is a 14 room superluxe guest cottage, an additional 6-room cottage, large greenhouse, stone ranch house, and an 8-car garage."

"This place, Amy observed, had more room for cars than our house now has for people."

"Despite the sumptuous nature of the house and grounds," the ad concluded, "it is possible to maintain the entire property, inside and out, with ten in help."

"If desired, furnishings are available at $100,000."

So, naturally, I called the agent to find out how much the place cost without the furnishings.

"It has just been reduced," he said, "from one million to $500,000."

ber of the party hierarchy, Pak Ching Ok and Gen. Nam Il, chief Communist delegate at the Panmunjom negotiations.

The Voice of Communist China gave more detailed pictures of North Korea's biggest purge since Kim founded the Korean People's Republic five years ago.

In a series of broadcasts it reported the actions of the sixth convention of the labor (Communist) party's central committee in Pyongyang last week.

Peking radio said the following punitive actions were death out during the convention:

1. Seven Communist officials were dropped from the powerful party central committee and party line on the charge of participating in "destructive plots against the party and the state."

2. Former envoy to Red China, Kwon was dropped from the list of candidates for the central committee and purged from party lists on the same charge.

3. Four other Koreans were ousted from the party central committee for "failing to display self-sacrificing loyalty to party and state during the period of the fatherland liberation war."

Barbaric broadcasts by Pyongyang and Peking radio revealed 12 Koreans had been convicted — 10 of them sentenced to death — to charges of spying for the United States and plotting to overthrow the Kim regime.

By BILL SHINN

SEUL, (AP) — Marshal Kim Il Sung and Gen. Nam Il, the two men who emerged as kingly figures in the newly-purged North Korean Communist regime, were revealed today to be "fantastic imposters" who borrowed their names from well known North Koreans of years ago.

Only today, Red China's Peking radio disclosed that Kim — one time Russian army major — has been awarded the title of "Hero of the People's Republic of Korea" by the standing committee of the North Korean Supreme People's Assembly in recognition of his wartime leadership.

The title apparently is an imitation of Russia's "Hero of the Soviet Union," which makes the recipient in Russia a virtual demigod.

Information that Kim and Nam Il are imposters with borrowed names came from a highly placed South Korean intelligence officer with excellent connections in North Korea and access to top secret reports on the muddled situation behind the Red's Bamboo Curtain.

His name cannot be revealed because of possible retaliation against relatives still living in North Korea.

Kim's role as an imposter who borrowed the name of a North Korean hero who fought the Japanese during the occupation of Korea has been known for some time.

But for the first time it was revealed that Nam Il, chief Red negotiator in the truce talks at Panmunjom, also borrowed the name of a prominent North Korean.

Here is the story as detailed by the intelligence officer:

Kim's real name was Kim Song Joo. He was born 42 years ago in a small village near the Red capital of Pyongyang, the son of an anti-Japanese Nationalist.

Death Toll in Greek Quake Over 500

ATHENS, Greece, (UP) — Twenty-two new tremors shook the island of Rhodes today and today's quake has been said to be the most powerful since the great earthquake in modern Greek history.

Rescue ships from the U. S. Sixth Fleet and British vessels from the Mediterranean squadron rushed to the almost destroyed islands of Cephalonia, Ithaca and Zante as the estimated death toll rose above 500.

All estimates of casualties are sketchy. Destruction is so great it will be days or weeks before all bodies are found.

"Mountains are splitting open, then sinking as if volcanoes had exploded," George Lyman of the newspaper Vardoulis reported from the devastated Cephalonian capital of Argostoli.

"The whole earth is sinking with a terrible under-ground noise," he said.

"People mad with fear are throwing themselves into the sea," his colleague John Voutsinos, said.

On Cephalonia, the cities of Lixouri, Sani and Agios Efthymia, as well as Argostoli, were in ruins.

The mainland cities of Patras and Missolonghi, where the English port Lord Byron died fighting for Greek independence, were badly hit.

The British cruiser Gambia reported that fires were raging through what was left of the ruined port of Zante, capital of the island of that name.

The USS Salvo, Sixth Fleet flagship, reached Argostoli with medical teams, hospital supplies, food, water and two helicopters.

The U. S. embassy here put the whole Sixth Fleet at the disposal of the Greek government if needed for rescue operations.

Tidal waves swept the port of Vathy, capital of Ithaca, the legendary kingdom of Odysseus of Homer's epic poem "Odyssey."

Egyptianess said the disaster looked "like the end of the world."

Many of the survivors were gripped with what the Red Cross called "disaster shock" and refused to leave their homes.

Alex Galanopoulos, professor of seismology at Athens University, said the earthquakes centered in a rupture of the sea floor in the two-mile-wide channel between Cephalonia and Ithaca.

He said such quakes were expected, having occurred in the last area in 1009, 1012, 1015 and 1018. But he said their time and severity could not be predicted.

George Kormilas, correspondent of the newspaper Kathimerini, said "there is a landslide every minute."

"The situation is one of panic," Kormilas said.

Kormilas' brief statement confirmed radio reports from rescue vessels that "people live in a state of madness."

V. Miltos, Zante's deputy minister, sent to Athens a four-word cable that told the story of death and destruction.

"Zante does not exist," the cablegram said.

Corridor-stricken survivors who had seen their loved ones crushed to death by crumbling walls or swallowed by the earth crowded the beaches awaiting evacuation.

Warships sent to the stricken islands gave first priority to the injured.

Pilots flying over the devastated area said the picture resembled them of photographs of Hiroshima after the atom bomb had been dropped.

The first group of 300 evacuees arriving at a Greek port of Piraeus described the horror.

"I was in our bakery," said Christos Spyros of Sami on the island of Cephalonia.

"Suddenly I heard a buzz coming through the earth, something like thunder," Spyros, hospitalized with a broken knee, said. "A shock followed, like an explosion under my feet."

"I saw my father two yards away killed by a falling wall. I could not help because he was buried under debris. I cried for help. People came and helped me out."

Phone Negotiations Continue

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP) — Negotiations on a new contract continued today between the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and the Communications Workers of America (CWA).

There was no report of developments at this morning's session but union vice-president Frank J. Longergan said no new proposals were offered by either side in yesterday's talks.

The 33,000 telephone employees represented by the union are working under the terms of the old contract extended while negotiations continued. The union, however, said it is free to call a strike at any time.

Horatio Prisoner Arrives in U. S.

TOKYO, (UP) — The second plane load of American repatriated prisoners will leave for the United States tonight aboard a military transport plane, it was announced.

The first group of 17 ex-POWs arrived in the U. S. yesterday.

Gen. Mark Clark's headquarters said the plane will take off at midnight (11 a.m. Thursday). It gave no itinerary.

One is Pfc. James Thompson, 21st Regt., 24th Div., whose mother, Mrs. Alice Thompson, lives at route one, Horatio, Ark.

Seeing is just as much an acquired art and skill as dancing or playing the piano, says the Better Vision Institute.

LATE VIGIL—An American soldier, his movements shadowy against the light of an overhead searchlight, stands guard at a prisoner of war compound which houses some 1500 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners of war, somewhere in Korea. American soldiers man guardposts of camps which house prisoners who did not, or could not, escape during the recent mass fourth Korean-inspired escapes from camps guarded by ROK troops.

Senator Asks More Gas Tax for States

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Sen. Schepel (R-Kan.) today called for a new federal gasoline tax to be levied on interstate highways.

Schepel is one of five senators on the 25-member committee set up by Congress this year to look into relationships between the federal, state and local governments.

The Eisenhower Administration has expressed hope the commission can reverse what it called a "turn toward a centralized federal government and at least make a start toward marking off the spheres of national, state and local governments."

The conference of state governors, meeting last week in Seattle, urged repeal of the 2-cent-a-gallon federal levy on gasoline.

Schepel, who served two terms as governor of Kansas before coming to the Senate, said in an interview he long had been sympathetic to this proposal, and without advance commitment, he would push at least for further study of the gasoline tax matter.

One argument of the states is that most of them send more dollars to Washington as a result of the levy than they get back.

Last year the federal tax brought in $50 million dollars. But federal aid highway grants to the states totaled only $500 million.

However, some senators have contended the federal government must stay in the highway picture, at least to supervise and coordinate the development of a national road system, which might suffer if each state went its own way in taking and construction.

Schepel said he also would urge the inter-governmental commission to recommend regular compensation of state and local governments for tax revenue lost when the federal government takes big chunks of their property.

Laniel Unable to Control French Labor

PARIS (AP) — French organized labor shook a big fist under Premier Joseph Laniel's nose today, calling out upwards of four million strikers to underline its protest against the government's economy program.

Most of the workers were ordered to walk out for only 24 or 28 hours. But a hard core of more than a million already is committed to stay out until the Premier backs down, tying up the nation's mines, railways, gas and electricity works, public health services and postal, telegraph and telephone systems.

In the ninth day of the strike wave, Laniel, a multimillionaire textile industrialist who learned to fight in the wartime French underground, stuck his chin out and said he would not yield.

Right-of-Way Fight Delays Road Work

LITTLE ROCK, (AP) — The State Highway Department said today it will start repaving the same County section of the proposed new Little Rock-Spring Highway after a squabble over right-of-way costs is ironed out.

The dispute will go to the September session of circuit court. Saline County landowners are appealing County Judge Charles O. Smith's valuation of an condemned land. They think it's too low.

State Highway Director Herbert Ellridge said construction will begin as soon as the circuit court sets valuation prices.

He said landings would start even if further appeals are made to the State Supreme Court by the Highway Department or the landowners.

Ellridge also said the Highway Department probably will plan four lanes for a Highway 67 project as soon as the new two-lane project is completed.

He said the present road handles 17,000 vehicles a day—too many for two lanes.

One of Canada's most exclusive clubs is the Kaimal Chieftainship restricted to 33 members, all honorary chiefs of the Blood Indians of Southwest Alberta.

Air Officers Held Secretly by Chinese

By WILLIAM MILLER

PANMUNJOM, Korea. (UP)—Only eight former inmates of a Chinese camp No. 5 remained in Communist captivity today as the Reds freed 100 more Americans.

A returning prisoner said the eight men in nearby Kaesong, awaiting repatriation and probably would be among the 75 Americans scheduled to be freed tomorrow.

It was learned today the Communists are holding many American Air Force officers in a secret compound.

C. J. William H. Abbott, Jr., of Jerusalem, O., said Air Force pilots shot down behind enemy lines were taken to the unlisted camp.

Abbott said the secret stockade came into existence after the Communists turned over the 100 American prisoners to the United Nations command in December.

The young Chinese said he did not know how many men were being held, but his statements backed up Allied charges that the Communists were withholding prisoners.

Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens, who interviewed the former prisoners at nearby Freedom Village, said the United States government would "do everything conceivable" to get back the missing men after the Reds have returned the prisoners they promised to repatriate.

The Communists listed 3,313 Americans for repatriation in "The Switch," but of this number seven were said to have renounced democracy and embraced communism.

Sgt. Jacques Beaupre of West Des Moines, Wis., gave the information about the cleanup of camp five. He said he saw the final eight at Kaesong before leaving for Panmunjom.

"A new camp is supposed to start arriving at Kaesong today," Beaupre said.

Beaupre said he did not know which camp would be emptied next.

The release of the 100 Americans Wednesday brought the number of U. S. soldiers liberated during the first eight days of "Operation Big Switch" to 748, of which 328 are sailing homeward on a troop transport and 17 have reached the United States by plane.

Shortly before the Wednesday exchange began, the United Nations Command said it would complete repatriation of Chinese Communists Thursday, turning over to the Reds 500 more than originally promised.

The U. N. C. said 222 Chinese will be returned, bringing the total of Chinese freed to 5,495.

At least 14,000 Chinese have refused repatriation and will be turned over to a neutral national custodial commission in the demilitarized buffer zone across the waist of Korea.

This far the United Nations has given back to the Communists at least 25,000 men and women who asked to be sent home. About 50,000 north Koreans remain to be repatriated.

Prisoners returning to freedom Wednesday, like those who preceded them, spoke bitterly of the American turncoats who followed the Communist line and played informer in camp No. 5.

They said one of the "progressives," as those who accepted the Communist line are called, came back with loyal Americans Wednesday and they expressed desires to repay him with violence.

Other former prisoners told how the "progressives" received special privileges and were wine and

He gave an eyewitness account of the massacre of 323 men of 323 men of Maj. Gen. William F. Dean's command in the Kum river breakthrough.

Ghyers, who was captured July 14, 1950, said men were shot or bayoneted in the death march to camp No. 7 in northeastern Korea across the border from Vladivostok, Siberia.

ROK Envoy Has No Faith in Truce

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The South Korean ambassador to the United States, predicting a Russian attack on this country's industrial heart, said yesterday the United States knows forthcoming post-truce talks will settle nothing.

But John Slezak, assistant secretary of the Army, said, "Any peace is better than any war. Any thing that stops the killing of our men is good."

retary of the Army, said, "Any peace is better than any war. Any thing that stops the killing of our men is good."

Ambassador You Chan Yang said he foresees no unification of Korea coming out of the truce or the proposed post-truce talks. Of the forthcoming political conference, he added, "Frankly, the United States knows that this talk is not going to settle anything."

Slezak spoke yesterday before the annual convention of the Southern Garment Manufacturers Association. Dr. Yang was among the speakers at a brief ceremony held before the 58 Stella Lykes sailed with 10,000 bales of cotton for South Korean rehabilitation.

CROSLLEY TV

10 reasons why you see it BETTER on a CROSLLEY

1. All channels. Built-in Crosley Ultratuner means you get all VHF and UHF channels. This feature is optional; can be added anytime.

2. Always in focus. Automatically you get a clear, sharp picture every time - and right to the edges of the screen.

3. Interference checked. Annoyance from appliances, passing autos, plane traffic, all eliminated. No fade, no flutter from signal fluctuations.

4. Greater picture pulling power. Strong reception of distant stations without loss in many other sets; weakens local reception, ideal for fringe areas.

5. Full-year warranty on both the chassis parts AND the picture tube. Compare this protection. Only Crosley's better engineering makes it possible.

6. Sharp, clear image free from disturbing patterns—just like seeing it in the television studio.
7. Full-room viewing. You see the whole picture from any viewing angle.
8. Reduced service calls. No need to call service man for minor adjustments. (Auxiliary controls are hidden but in easy reach.) You can "do it yourself."
9. Front-removable picture window on custom models. Clean window and picture tube face yourself. (Another service call saved.) And Crosley no-glare picture window is slanted to reflect room lights to the floor.
10. Factory- and field-tested. Thorough field testing. Then all Crosley's adjusted to Crosley's test transmitter broadcast of signal strength.
